

CODY HOLYOKE

12 East Delano Avenue ▪ Montgomery, AL 36105 ▪ (607) 592-8466 ▪ cody.holyoke@gmail.com

DEMO REEL

CONTENTS

PART ONE:

A compilation of on-air stand-ups, anchoring, and live hits during broadcast.

PART TWO:

Five packages (all edited by me):

Lee High School Unrest – Continuing acts of violence at a Montgomery high school put students in a tight spot: do they let their teachers battle the problem, or do they risk punishment by taking the issue to the airwaves?

Bye, Bye, Brew Pub – A longtime mainstay in downtown Montgomery falls victim to a bad economy and new development. Now, the owner has to lay off dozens of employees, and the future is unclear.

Selma City Council Chaos – I'm live just minutes after an explosive City Council meeting in Selma, the one of the birthplaces of Civil Rights. Protestors demand the council's president step down amidst claims of racism.

Money Troubles – Workers at a local security company say they haven't received pay for weeks. We hit the ground there to figure out what the issue is.

Greetings from Maine! – A display of ability when it comes to new technologies. Stuck in a blizzard in December, I send back reports about the stranglehold the snow has on travel in the Northeast. Shot solo on a Droid X smartphone.

PART THREE:

Long-form instances of anchoring:

Officer Brown Injured...Twice – A clip from September 11, 2010. I produced this portion of the news (format, graphics, etc.) and delivered the breaking developments of two violent crashes.

MADD on Mother's Day – A mixture of anchoring and reporting, this story profiles the mother of a slain police officer and her quest to curb drunk driving.